IX

Research

(a) Completed

- i. Audit of the indication, classification and outcome of maxillectomy procedures at the University College Hospital, Ibadan.

(b) In progress

- i. A study of paediatric head and neck tumor: This multidisciplinary research aims to review the clinicopathologic features of neoplastic conditions of the head and neck region of the paediatric age group. The outcome of this research will help in the characterization of these lesions and thus enhancing intervention and prognostication. It will also help in improving interdisciplinary approach to the management of this disease. Presently, data collection in progress.
- ii. Craniofacial anthropometry: Craniofacial measurements are important for guidance during reconstruction of the maxillofacial region. However, despite racial differences in craniofacial anthropometry, data from our region is still inadequate in the literature. This study aims to provide data on major craniofacial dimension in our region. The outcome of this study will have relevance by providing information on major landmarks of intraoperative relevance. Presently, data collection is in progress.

(c) Project, Dissertation and Thesis

- i. Aladelusi, Timothy Olukunle, 2009, An evaluation of the role of immunocal in radiation induced mucositis in wistar rats (Rattus Novegicus). Presented to the University of Ibadan in part fulfilment for an award of Master of Science in Anatomy.
- ii. Aladelusi, Timothy Olukunle, 2012, Analysis of the severity of road traffic maxillofacial injuries seen at the University College Hospital, Ibadan, Nigeria. - Presented to the West African College of Surgeons in partial fulfilment for the award of fellowship in Oral and Maxillofacial surgery
